Liberty Baptist Church, under the pastorship of Rev. H. Doyle Chauncey, has set Sunday as Harvest Day and Homecoming.

Rev. Tom Theriot, pastor of Liberty Baptist Church, Youngstown, Ohio, will be the guest pastor for the morning service at 11 o'clock.

Liberty Baptist of Youngstown is a member of the Southern Baptist Association and was incorporated as a church July 27, 1971. Prior to that the church was a mission of the Liberty Baptist Church in Appomattox.

The Appomattox church has assisted the mission church for several years with small monthly contributions and has set a Harvest Day - Homecoming goal of $10,000 to be given to the Youngstown church.

Tom Theriot

Presently the Youngstown church meets in a house on 11 and a half acres of land. Plans call for the construction of an educational building to be started in the near future.

Following the morning worship, a covered dish luncheon will be served in the church fellowship hall, and at 2: p.m. an afternoon services will be conducted with former pastors and the Liberty Youth Choir participating.

FBLA Launches March of Dimes Drive

For Better Life In America is the slogan for phase two of Project Help, the highly successful cooperative of Future Business Leaders of America - Phi Beta Lambda and the March of Dimes. Help (health education leads to progress) is concerned with preventing birth defects and giving more children the birthright of a healthy beginning.

Since the project was adopted in 1972, FBLA and PBL chapters across the country have engaged in educational, service, and fund raising projects aimed at helping the 250,000 children born each year in the U.S.A. with mental and physical damage and with improving the quality of life for the next generation. One million dollars for the March of Dimes is the two year goal of the national organization of business students. The state goal for 1974-76 is $62,889.

The Appomattox FBLA Chapter will participate in the March of Dimes drive this week by asking for a $1 or more contribution from the public. To show appreciation for the donation, the contributor will receive a package of March of Dimes trash bags. Your support of this project will be greatly appreciated.

Housing Policies Testimony Extended

Citizens of Appomattox who could not attend the public hearing on the Housing Policies Plan for Central Virginia will have the opportunity to submit written testimony on the Plan until 5: p.m. Mon., Nov. 25.

The public hearing on the Plan was held Nov. 14, at Brookville High School. Approximately 40 persons attended and five people presented comments on the Plan.

The Housing Policies Plan has three primary goals:

1. To insure adequate housing choice for all district residents.

2. To provide an aesthetic and healthful environment for all district residents.

3. To make optimum use of Central Virginia's resources.

Objectives and strategies are listed in the Plan for meeting the three goals.

Comments at the public hearing ranged from statistical questions to a request for a public hearing in the inner city to a suggestion that the needs of the elderly be considered in the Plan.

Irving Latham, Bedford County administrator speaking as a private citizen rather than for the Board of Supervisors, pointed out that some statistical data in the Plan is obsolete.

In reply William W. Hibbert, Executive Director of the Central Virginia Planning District Commission, said the problem had been recognized and would be remedied in the future because the planning commission will no longer have to use figures supplied by the State and can use up-to-date local statistics unless the Plan is to be included in a state-wide program.

Garnell Stamps, speaking for the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, requested a public hearing be held in the inner city enabling residents of that area to attend.

Stamps pointed out that the Plan deals with deteriorated housing and low-income housing which directly affects people in the inner city.

Another speaker, Lunsford Loving, coordinator for the Virginia Council of Churches' ministry on aging, questioned the consideration the Plan had given to the elderly.

Bruce Bowles, CVPDC staff member, pointed out the Housing Policies Plan had given consideration to all types of groups and their various needs. He said that while the Plan did not mention the elderly in specific terms. their needs for housing were taken into consideration.

Any citizens wanting to submit testimony may do so by putting their comments in writing and sending them to the Central Virginia Planning District Commission, 2311 Memorial Ave., Lynchburg, Va. 24501.

Copies of the Plan and the summary of the Plan are available at the Commission office.

Parents, Educators Participate In Regional Reading Conference

Appomattox County sent 15 parents and educators to a Regional Reading Conference November 7 at E. C. Glass High School in Lynchburg.

Dr. Jane Root, a freelance reading consultant from Manlius, N. Y. addressed conference attendees as the keynote speaker. Dr. Root's subject was, "What is a Quality Reading Program?"

Attending the conference and workshop from Appomattox were Mrs. Pat Torrence, Mrs. Barbara Waddell, Lloyd Walton, Dr. A. A. Fratrick, Robert Carter, Mrs. Robert McClenny Mrs. Barbara Caldwell, Robert Williamson, Mrs. Jean Hesson, Mrs. Diane Scruggs, Ben Harvey, Mrs. Richard D. Roanson, Marvin House, Mrs. Ora McCoy, and Mrs. Hazeltine Foster.

Following Dr. Root's presentation, conference participants were divided into discussion groups so that each parent or educator could discuss specific areas of reading improvement or problems.

Group leaders were Franklin A. Cain, Jr. of the State Department of Education whose topic was "Interpreting Test Scores to Parents;" Mrs. Betty Medley of Charlottesville who led a discussion on the "Contribution of Libraries to the Reading Process," and Dr. Angela Reek of Madison College whose topic was "The Reading Process."

Other group leaders and topics were, Mrs. Mildred Gerberich and Mrs. Mary Holmes of Campbell County - "The Role of Parents in the Reading Process," Dr. Root - "Quality of a Reading Program Continue," Mrs. Sue M. Davis, State Department of Education - "Supplemental Skill Development Program" and Mrs. Ida Powell of Lynchburg - "Expectation of the Parents for the Reading Process."

At least two members of the Appomattox delegation sat in on each discussion group.

Carter, who sat with Cain's discussion group, was impressed with the entire conference. Carter said, "This type of conference is a great experience, it is beneficial to parents, teacher, school administrators and PTA members. For instance, we learned that there is no rational way to determine a child's learning appitude when the test scores are compiled on a national basis. The only true gross section would have to come from a local comparison rather than from a national level."

Carter added, "Conferences such as this is an excellent way to get everyone involved in the school community and the educational process."

Mrs. Caldwell also expressed her pleasure at being able to attend the conference. "It was truly wonderful to have the opportunity to get involved in the learning process," Mrs. Carter said. "I am grateful to have been able to attend."

Points of discussion included getting the parent involved in the educational process, social and emotional needs of students, encouraging a better student-teacher-parent relationship, improved teacher training programs and suggested book lists to parents of children who may have reading problems.

As a result of the conference, it is possible that a localized conference may evolve in which more parents and teachers may participate. Appomattox Division Superintendent of Schools Lloyd Walton says, "We are hoping that the PTA's and the Central Planning Council will work toward getting parents involved in the school system. This type of conference is a definite means of accomplishing that goal."

Teacher In-Service Led By Parents

On November 18th, the Appomattox Primary School Faculty enjoyed an in-service program concerning the Regional Reading Conference entitled "Reading Improvement - A Cooperative Community Commitment," which was held at E. C. Glass on November 7, 1974. Mrs. Barbara Caldwell and Mrs. Anne Robinson, (seated at the table) shared the parents' viewpoint about the conference. Also pictured above is Mrs. Goode, one of the teachers who enjoys using a variety of media with students in order to improve reading enjoyment. The parents shared a review of some most effective methods to help individuals learn to read.

Rescue Squad Short Of Goal

Will Accept Donations At Set Locations Saturday

The month of October, as always, was set as "Fund Raising Drive" month for the Concord Rescue Squad.

Volunteers of this organization have been out on a door-to-door canvass but have been unsuccessful in reaching the goal they had set for the coming year.

In an effort to raise at least $1500.00 to aid in meeting the expenses for the coming year, members of the Concord Rescue Squad and their wives will set up at three locations in the area on Saturday, November 23rd, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. and will be available to accept any and all donations. The locations set are Templeton's Market on Route 460 East, Moore's Country Store on Route 460 East near the B&W entrance, and at the Big Horn Market on Route 460 in Concord.

Your understanding, but most of all you help and cooperation will be greatly appreciated by the members of the Concord Rescue Squad and by the community in which they serve. Give generously.

Information Center Needs Aid

The Information and Referral Center of Appomattox has announced a need for workers.

The Rev. E. Moray Peoples, Jr., a local minister and co-founder of our Center, says the need is immediate. Volunteers staff the Center five days each week for three hours per day. "We are looking for three or four people to give one day a week for the next six months," said Rev. Peoples on Tuesday.

The local Information Center opened this past May. The object of the office is to be the link between people and the services they need. "Our aim is to help people find the services they need. We do not provide the services, rather the information about where and how they may be located."

The Information and Referral Center has resources for child care, personal counseling, employment, legal aid, housing and many other vital community services. All information is provided free and confidentiality is maintained.

Prior to going to work each volunteer must participate in a three session training program conducted by Rev. Peoples and the local staff. "We want all our staff to feel comfortable and know what they are doing. Accurate information is absolutely vital to the task of Information and Referral."

Interested citizens may contact the Information Center (352-7333) or call Rev. Peoples directly at 352-7544. "No one would be expected to make any commitment at all until completing the training program," Rev. Peoples added.

The local office, a satillite of the I & R Center of Central Virginia located in Lynchburg, is open from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. daily.

"We need help in order to be of help to others," Rev. Peoples said. "I firmly believe the Information Center is a valuable resource for everyone in Appomattox. Community support is essential if we are to remain alive. Newcomers to the county and town especially appreciate our assistance."
